

Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Wednesday 07 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Mainly dry with bright or sunny spells.

Today:

A largely dry day with just the outside chance of an afternoon shower. Rather cloudy to start, but soon brightening up with sunny spells developing. Light northwesterly winds. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:

A dry evening and start to the night. Cloud increases from the north overnight to bring some patchy drizzle later in the night. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Thursday:

A rather dull day with low cloud and patchy light drizzle at times. Light variable winds. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

Showers breaking out by day, but mostly dry overnight. Some longer spells of rain also likely on Sunday. Winds mostly light.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.